Articles

Agresti, Alan, Wackerly, Dennis D. & Boyett, James. Exact conditional tests for cross-classifications: Approximation of attained significance levels. 75–83.

Barron, F. Hutton. (See Emery, Douglas R.)

Best, Alvin M., III, Young, Forrest W. & Hall, Robert G. On the precision of a euclidean structure. 395–408.

Bloxom, Bruce. Estimating an unobserved component of a serial response time model. 473–484.

Boyett, James. (See Agresti, Alan)

Brockway, George. (See Morrison, Donald G.)

Clarkson, Douglas B. Estimating the standard errors of rotated factor loadings by jackknifing. 297–314.

Cliff, Norman. Test theory without true scores? 373–394.

Cramer, Elliot M. & Nicewander, W. Alan. Some symmetric, invariant measures of multivariate association. 43–54.

Davison, Mark L. Testing a unidimensional qualitative unfolding model for attitudinal or developmental data. 179–194.

Divig, D. R. Calculation of tetrachoric correlation coefficient. 169–172.

Emery, Douglas R. & Barron, F. Hutton. Axiomatic and numerical conjoint measurement: An evaluation of diagnostic efficacy. 195–210.

Findeisen, Peter. Convergence theory for partial images and revision of the definition of total images. 315–328.

Finkbeiner, Carl. Estimation for the multiple factor model when data are missing. 409–420.

Fleiss, Joseph L. (See Wallenstein, Sylvan)

Gibbons, Jean D., Olkin, Ingram & Sobel, Milton. A subset selection technique for scoring items on a multiple choice test. 259–270.

Hall, Robert G. (See Best, Alvin M., III)

Hubert, Lawrence J. Generalized concordance. 135–142.

Hubert, Lawrence J. Matching models in the analysis of cross-classifications. 21–41.

Jennrich, Robert I. (See Lee, Sik-Yum)

Jennrich, Robert I. Admissible Values of γ in direct oblimin rotation. 173–177.

Kraemer, Helena Chmura. Ramifications of a population for κ as a coefficient of reliability. 461–472.

Kraemer, Helena Chmura. Tests of homogeneity of independent correlation coefficients. 329–335.

Laughlin, James E. A Bayesian alternative to least squares and equal weighting coefficients in regression. 271–288.

Lee, Sik-Yum & Jennrich, Robert I. A study of algorithms for covariance structure analysis with specific comparisons using factor analysis. 99–113.

Levine, Joel H. Joint-space analysis of "pick-any" data: Analysis of choices from an unconstrained set of alternatives. 85–92.

MacCallum, Robert C. Recovery of structure in incomplete data by ALSCAL. 69–74.

McDonald, Roderick P., Tori, Yukihiko & Nishisato, Shizuhiko. Some results on proper eigenvalues and eigenvectors with applications to scaling. 211–227.

Morrison, Donald G. & Brockway, George. A modified beta binomial model with applications to multiple choice and taste tests. 427–442.

Nicewander, W. Alan. (See Cramer, Elliot M.)

Nishisato, Shizuhiko. (See McDonald, Roderick P.)

Olkin, Ingram. (See Gibbons, Jean D.)

Olsson, Ulf. Maximum likelihood estimation of the polychoric correlation coefficient. 443–460.

Owston, Ronald. A maximum likelihood approach to the "test of inclusion". 421–426.

Rozeboom, William W. Sensitivity of a linear composite of predictor items to differential item weighting. 289–296.

Rule, Stanley J. Solutions to some nonlinear equations from nonmetric data. 143–155.

Schulman, Robert S. Ordinal data: An alternative distribution. 3–20.

Sobel, Milton. (See Gibbons, Jean D.)

Steiger, James H. Factor indeterminacy in the 1930's and the 1970's: Some interesting parallels. 157–167.

Steiger, James H. The relationship between external variables and common factors. 93–97.

Tori, Yukihiko. (See McDonald, Roderick P.)

Wackerly, Dennis D. (See Agresti, Alan)

Wallenstein, Sylvan & Fleiss, Joseph L. Repeated measurements analysis of variance when the correlations have a certain pattern. 229–233.

Wilcox, Rand R. Comparing examinees to a control. 55–68.

Young, Forrest W. (See Best, Alvin M., III)
